Thank you for being interested in the Christian Friendship Fellowship. The CFF started over 40 years ago as an organisation to put single Christians in touch with each other for friendship, and there are a good number of groups of single people now, although a few groups do have people who have met and married through CFF, mostly in positions of leadership.

There are groups over many parts of the British Isles, some larger, some smaller, and in a number of groups people tend to be in the middle-aged to older age bracket. Local groups arrange their own programmes and may include such things as meals out, rambles, Bible studies, meeting for coffee, visiting places of interest etc. See “Local Groups – Locations and Programmes” on the website for their locations. In London, a meal in a central venue is attended once a month.

As CFF membership has now been devolved to the local groups, they will admit new members and renew current membership once the coronavirus pandemic is over and people are allowed to meet socially once more.

If you would like to know if there is a CFF group in your area, or where the nearest one is, please phone 0141 334 0009, and I will then give you the phone number of a contact person. An answerphone is available and if a name and number is left, you will be contacted as soon as possible. Please ring between 9.30am and 10pm (but not between 2 and 6pm – not even to leave a message). Or email me at cffenquiry@sky.com and you can receive the information that way.

God bless you!

Yours sincerely

Fiona
